Russians Suffered Heavy Losses in Retreat Across Sereth

BERLIN, Jan. 22, by wireless to Sayville.—The entire bridgehead position at Kaniou, on the Sereth line, in Northern Rumania, fell into Field Marshal von Mackensen's hands with the town, the War Office announced yesterday. The Russians suffered severe losses in retreating across the Sereth bridge and 40 prisoners were taken.

Yesterday's statement read:
"Front of Field Marshal von Mackensen: Together with Naniou, on Jan. 21, the entire bridgehead position at Kaniou, on the Sereth line, in Northern Rumania, fell into our hands. Pomeranians, Altmarians and West Prussians stormed several hostile lines which had strongly entrenched points of support. The town itself was taken in a violent assault. The Russians were driven back from house to house. The Russians, streaming back across the Sereth bridges, were caught by our outflanking batteries and machine guns and suffered severe losses. The official 455 men, two machine guns and four line fifties fell into our hands."

Further progress has been made against the enemy's trenches on the right bank southwest of Kut-El-Amara."

Lively Skirmishing in Progress on Rumanian Front

BERLIN, Jan. 22, by wireless to Sayville.—Lively skirmishing has been in progress along the Rumanian front, according to today's army headquarters announcement. In the Putna Valley area on the Moldavian western front, the Russians attacked the German advance line but were repulsed.

Next raids in the Riga region, in which the Russians were repulsed also were reported.

British Plan to Lease Greek Ships

LONDON, Jan. 22.—A dispatch to the Times from Athens says: "The British Government's intention to lease the Greek ships has caused a great stir. It is understood England will pay $10 a ton a month for the ships, which they will insure at from $150 to $200 a ton. The ships are to be chartered for the duration of the war and the subsequent six months. The owners must deposit about one-fourth of their ship's value in London as security for the execution of the charter. If they are unwilling to do this the ships will be commandeered at the rate of $15 a ton."

The Daily News Says It Understands

about 100,000 tons of Greek shipping now being held up in British and other allied ports will be affected. The newspaper adds that in the event of war between the entente allies and Greece the ships will continue to be employed, but under the flag of the Greek provisional Government.

CALLER AT MAYOR'S OFFICE CARRIED HALF OF A BRICK

Assured It Was Plan to Throw It Through Post-Dispatch Office Window If Hearing Was Refused.

Pete Kempf, 30 years old, carried a half brick when he called at the Mayor's office this morning. He assured the office force he had no intention of shoving it at the Mayor, but revealed his purpose was to throw it through the front window of the Post-Dispatch office, if the Mayor should refuse to give him a hearing.

He was persuaded to accompany a policeman to the Central District Station. It developed that he is a "regular" at the Municipal Lodging House, and that he left this morning without doing the work assigned to him. He said he needed a meal before working. He said he had visited the Post-Dispatch and other newspapers, but had been unable to get any attention for his story, which is mostly about his unsuccessful attempts to gain admission to the city infirmary or poorhouse.

Coverman's Company First to Use Free Bridge for Commercial Purpose

The Pioneer Cooperative Co. of 232 E. Kalb street is said to be the first St. Louis firm to have the honor of using the St. Louis Free Bridge for commercial purposes.

John Waldner, a driver for the cooperative company, crossed the bridge this morning at 6 a. m. with a three-horse wagon load of barrels. A police officer stationed on the bridge told the driver that his was the first vehicle that had used the bridge for hauling goods with the exception of the truck of coal that was sent over from the east side Saturday afternoon as part of the celebration.

JOYRIDERS, DRUNK, TRY BURGLARY; 2 KILLED IN FLIGHT

Stolen Auto Leaps From Bridge, and Only One of Three Occupants Survives.

Three young men, sobering up in the Clayton jail today, had only a hazy recollection of a tragic joyride which started in St. Louis at 7 p. m. and ended in Florissant, 15 miles northwest of the city early yesterday when they were arrested as burglars and their two companions plunged into Coldwater Creek in an automobile and were killed.

They blamed the exploit on drink and said all the members of the party were intoxicated when the car entered Florissant after a wild night ride. All said the attempted burglary was their first crime. The ride, they said, was planned by young men who "hung out" around Grand and Easton avenues.

The men killed were Harry Walsh, 19 years old, of 1155 Thomas street, and William Beckmann, 22, 240 Madison street. With William B. O'Gorman of 3231 Easton avenue, they were fleeing in the automobile from Mrs. L. Hugo's hardware store on Florissant, after William F. Hecht, Mrs. Hugo's son-in-law, unarmed, had captured their companions, Joseph Robinson, 24, 3107 Thomas street, and George P. Brown, 24, 1155 Thomas street.

Hecht is a salesman for the Beck-Hecht Lumber Co. He and his wife and small child live in three rooms in the rear of the hardware store. Three members of the party drove away in the automobile when Hecht surprised the burglars.

The machine crashed through the wooden railing of a bridge, which is a jog in the road, and went into the creek. Walsh and Beckmann were flung out of the car and arrested by Constable John Miller when he wandered back, dashed to the hardware store where Robinson and Brown were being held prisoners.

The automobile, a Ford touring car, was identified as the property of Paul Morris of 1012 Clarence avenue. It was stolen from Grand avenue and Morgan street about 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Beginning of the joyride. The combination joyride and burglary expedition started from Grand and Easton avenues about 5:30 p. m. Saturday, according to O'Gorman's account. The driver of the car was Harry Walsh, who was a clerk in downtown department store. Walsh and Beckmann drove up at Grand and Easton avenues and there met Robinson, O'Gorman and Brown, with whom they were slightly acquainted. The men had several drinks at saloons in the neighborhood.

Walsh and Beckmann invited the other three to accompany them on a joyride into the country. O'Gorman said that on the way out they stopped at several places and had more drinks and all were intoxicated when they approached Florissant.

The suggestion that they commit a robbery was made on the way out, O'Gorman said. At the hardware store the panel was painted green and they thought it was tin. When the falling glass made a noise they ran from the store and hid, but when they saw that the noise had not aroused anyone they returned to the store. Walsh and Beckmann remained outside in the automobile, while the three others entered the store.

A door leads to the store from the kitchen. Hecht was awakened by a noise in the store about 1:30 a. m. It developed later that one of the burglars had knocked over a ladder. With the flash lamp in his hand, Hecht entered the store. As he did so a man ran past him and went out through a side door which the burglars had broken to get into the store.

Behind a counter near the front of the store he saw two men. Turning his flashlight in their faces, he commanded them to throw up their hands, telling them he would shoot if they did not obey.

Thinking the clerk was armed, the burglars surrendered. It developed later that no member of the joyriding party had a weapon.

Wife Holds Prisoners.
One of the men, when he got under way was standing in front of a drawer in which was Hecht's revolver. Hecht marched the burglars into the kitchen, where Mrs. Hecht was. The room was dark except for the flash lamp. Hecht went through the motion of passing something to his wife.

"You keep them covered," he said, "until I get back."

President's Suggestions as to Concert of Power

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.
PRESIDENT WILSON in his remarkable address to the Senate this afternoon made his principal suggestions in the closing paragraphs as follows:

"I am proposing, as it were, that the nations should with one accord adopt the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world: That no nation should seek to extend its policy over another nation or people but that every people should be left free to determine its own policy, its own way of development, unhindered, unthreatened, unafraid, the little along with the great and powerful.

"I am proposing that all nations henceforth avoid entangling alliances which would draw them into competitions of power, catch them in a net of intrigue, and selfish rivalry, and disturb their own affairs with influences intruded from without. There is no tangling alliance in a concert of power. When all unite to act in the same sense and with the same purpose all act in the common interest and are free to live their own lives under a common protection.

"I am proposing Government by the consent of the governed; that freedom of the seas which in international confidence after confidence representatives of the United States have urged with the eloquence of those who are the convinced disciples of liberty; and that moderation of armaments which makes of armies an onerous power for order merely, not an instrument of aggression or of selfish violence.

"These are American principles, American policies. We can stand for no others. And they are also the principles and policies of forward looking men and women everywhere, of every modern nation, of every enlightened community. They are the principles of mankind and must prevail.

President Wilson's own view of his speech to the Senate was given in a discussion with a Senator just after he finished his address. He said:

"I have said what everybody has been longing for, but has thought impossible. Now it appears to be possible."

19,108 CROSSED FREE BRIDGE YESTERDAY

Crowd of Sightseers Heaviest Late in Afternoon—All Traffic Being Counted.

To determine the extent to which the free bridge is used, the city has stationed men at each end to count the pedestrians and vehicles which cross during each hour from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily. The first count was made yesterday when thousands of sightseers were attracted to the structure by the mild weather and the fact that it was Sunday and the first day after the formal opening.

The count showed that 19,108 persons walked from the west side to the east side during the hours in which the count was made. Only 14,000 were counted walking back, but many of those who walked east did not return until after the tally had been stopped for the day.

Passenger automobiles counted going east were 1887 and 1881 west, west, 1517 and 1511 east. The greatest number of vehicles in one hour, 241, crossed between 5 and 6 p. m. The count will be continued for a week or longer.

Traffic was light over the bridge today, as cold weather and business kept sightseers away. A considerable number of workmen walked from the west side to the east side early in the morning and occasional coal and transfer wagons crossed during the day. Scattered automobiles, mostly those of salesmen or other business cars, were going back and forth all day.

JUDGE GRIMM CRITICIZES TWO LAWYERS FOR SHAM PLEADING

Circuit Judge Grimm today criticized George Rafter and John S. Maradelet, attorneys for "sham pleading" in sustaining a motion to make more definite and certain a petition they had filed in a damage suit in which Miss Irene Foley is suing the St. Louis Dairy Co. for injuries she received when she was struck by an auto truck of the company Oct. 3 last.

The petition set forth that Miss Foley's "skin, muscles, veins, arteries, nerves, membranes, ligaments, tendons, sinews, cartilages and bones of the head, wrists, arms, elbows, shoulders, feet, ankles, legs, knees, thighs, head and face were cut, mashed, bruised, contused, lacerated, sprained, strained, compressed, from each other, broken, crushed, infected and inflamed."

"Anyone thus injured would not survive an hour," said the judge. "Such pleading is reprehensible."

PROPOSES CONCERT OF ALL NATIONS REPLACE EXISTING ALLIANCES

Says Peace That Ends War Must Win Approval of Mankind Before U. S. Would Aid in Guarantees.

DECLARES SEAS MUST IN LAW AND FACT BE FREE

Proposes That Monroe Doctrine Be the Doctrine of the World—Speaks as an Individual, but Believes He Speaks for American People and Liberals Everywhere.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—President Wilson, in a personal address to the Senate today, laid down the question of whether the United States shall depart from its traditional policy of isolation and no entangling alliances, and take part in a world league to preserve peace after the war. No such history-making event with such far-reaching possibilities to the United States probably ever had been seen in the Senate chamber.

Shattering precedent of more than a century, the President, regarding the Senate with its treaty-making power as his councilor in foreign affairs, explained why he believed the time had come for the world to know America's position and discussed the underlying causes on which he believes a permanent peace of the world can be maintained.

While President Wilson was speaking directly to the Senators, after the manner of Washington, Madison and Adams, his address was in the hands of all foreign Governments or on its way to them.

In the background of the fundamental proposition of whether the United States should alter the foreign policy laid down by Washington and carried out by a long line of Presidents, was the possibility that out of some such league of nations might come a way to end the present war.

Proposes Concert of Powers to Replace Alliances.
The President said in conclusion:
"I am proposing, as it were, that the nations should with one accord adopt the doctrine of President Monroe as the doctrine of the world; that no nation should seek to extend its policy over any other nation or people, but that every people should be left free to determine its own policy, its own way of development, unhindered, unthreatened, unafraid, the little along with the great and powerful.

"I am proposing that all nations henceforth avoid entangling alliances which would draw them into competitions of power, catch them in a net of intrigue and selfish rivalry, and disturb their own affairs with influences intruded from without. There is no tangling alliance in a concert of power. When all unite to act in the same sense and with the same purpose all act in the common interest and are free to live their own lives under a common protection.

"I am proposing government by the consent of the governed; that freedom of the seas which in international confidence after confidence representatives of the United States have urged with the eloquence of those who are the convinced disciples of liberty; and that moderation of armaments which makes of armies and navies a power for order merely, not an instrument of aggression or of selfish violence."

For nearly a half hour the President spoke, with members of the Senate, members of the Cabinet and packed galleries listening with rapt attention. When he concluded there was a tremendous burst of applause in which many of the Republican Senators joined the Democrats.

When the President had finished and the Senate returned to its regular business, Senator La Follette epitomized the sentiment of all present or saying:
"We have just passed through a very important hour in the life of the world."

Some Republicans Opposed to "Propriety."
Senators generally reserved comment on the President's address, but some Republicans, who said they did not wish to be quoted, said they were opposed to both the "propriety and substance."

Briefly, the President in his address said that he believed no peace which was a peace of victory in the present war would be a permanent peace and that it must be taken for granted that peace "must be followed by some definite concert of power which will make it virtually impossible that any such catastrophe should ever overwhelm us again."

"It is inconceivable," he said, "that the people of the United States should play no part in that great enterprise. They cannot in honor withhold the services to which they are about to be challenged."

"That service is nothing less than this: To add their authority and their power to the authority and force of other nations to guarantee peace and justice throughout the world."

President Wilson's Address.
The President spoke as follows:
"Gentlemen of the Senate—On the 18th of December last I addressed an identical note to the Governments of the nations now at war, requesting them to state more definitely than they had yet been asked by other groups of belligerents, the terms upon which they would down it possible to make

4 IDENTIFIED AS AUTO ROBBERS IN A STORE HOLDUP

Men Arrested Far From Scene of Robbery After Apparently Getting Away.

POLICE IN AUTO CHASE

Chauffeur Says He Was Forced to Drive Robbers; One Recently Pardoned.

After the holdup of Thomas Rosenblatt's drug store, at Eighteenth and Washington streets at 9 o'clock last night by automobile robbers and an apparently unsuccessful chase by policemen in a commandeered automobile, four men were arrested when walking on Grand avenue and later identified by Dalton Cabbree, a chauffeur, as the four who forced him to drive a service automobile for them while they robbed the store and fled from the police, who fired many shots at them.

The men said they were Harry Moore, 31 years old, of 8445 Bell avenue; John Cain, 22, of 3618 Cook avenue; Theodore Krause, 22, of 1706 Wash street, and Frank Cleary, 23, of 2703 North Taylor avenue. Moore and Cain were identified by Rosenblatt as the two who robbed his cash register of $15 while the automobile in which the robbers fled waited in front of the store.

Moore, known to the police as the "boy burglar," was arrested Aug. 19, 1916, pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary four days later and was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. After serving a little more than a year he was pardoned last Thanksgiving day by Gov. Major. At the time of his conviction the police had evidence which they believed pointed his implication in several other burglaries.

Chauffeur's Story.

Cabbree, who lives at 1019 North Leonard avenue, returned with his automobile to the Dollar Auto Co., 415 North Leonard avenue, after the robbery, apparently confident they had eluded the pursuing police, left the automobile at Leonard and Bell avenues. He called the police and told the story which led to the capture of the men.

LIVING ON YOUR NERVE

Everybody has a store of nervous energy. When work or worry without sufficient rest exhausts this store a condition results that medical men call neurasthenia.

It is commonly met with in those who have had keen anxieties, as those who have cared for sick relatives, business men who worry over their affairs and neglect to take vacations. Women who are too active socially, anyone who has too much excitement and too little rest may show the symptoms.

The complexion becomes pale, you imagine unpleasant things, your brain insists on working when you want to go to sleep. Sometimes you are melancholy. Things that used to please you no longer do so. Constipation is usually present. You worry about yourself and your work and cannot forget your anxieties.

No doctor can cure neurasthenia. You have to do it yourself. The first thing to do is to get the Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills are the best treatment for neurasthenia. They will give you a new life. They will make you feel like a new man or woman.

His purpose was to get his revolver from the drawer. In the dark Mrs. Hecht kept the burglars "covered" with an imaginary weapon until her husband returned with the revolver. Sure of his ground then, Hecht turned on a light. Mrs. Hecht ran to a neighbor's home and had a message sent to Constable Miller.

Ford, to Seventeenth and Wash streets, in response to a telephone message from a "Mr. Adams" wished to hire an automobile. When he drove up four men got in, one taking the seat beside Crabtree. The man in front pressed a revolver against the chauffeur and told him he was to ask no questions and drive where ordered, he said.

After circling the block the chauffeur stopped the car on orders in front of Rosenblatt's drug store. Two of the men went in, one remained on the sidewalk and the one with the driver retained his seat and commanded that the engine be kept running. Besides robbing Rosenblatt's cash register the robbers took 50 cents from a customer, Frank Stevens, of 102 North Ninth street. They also fired two shots while in the store. Rosenblatt did not report the holdup to the police.

Shortly afterward Policemen Juellch, Collier and McKenna noticed three men in front of the drug store of John S. Henco, at Garrison and Washington avenues. They heard one say, "Ligger the cops!" and the three ran around on Garrison avenue. Following them, the policemen saw them get away in a Ford automobile which had been stopped on Garrison avenue. The officers impressed a passing automobile and gave chase, firing at the fleeing suspects, who returned the fire.

The chase led south to Chouteau avenue and after circling several blocks in the vicinity of the railroad yards, the men threw the officers off the trail. When Crabtree called up the police department from the automobile company's office, policemen were sent to search the neighborhood.

The four men arrested were walking rapidly on Grand avenue, near Cook avenue. One started to run when the police approached. They were locked up at the Dayton Street Police Station.

Two burglars killed in accident, three companions caught.

His purpose was to get his revolver from the drawer. In the dark Mrs. Hecht kept the burglars "covered" with an imaginary weapon until her husband returned with the revolver. Sure of his ground then, Hecht turned on a light. Mrs. Hecht ran to a neighbor's home and had a message sent to Constable Miller.

TO DIG FOR TREASURE ON THEIR HONEYMOON

Cartoonist McCutcheon Buys Supplies and Will Sail Tonight With Bride for Island.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—John T. McCutcheon and his young Chicago bride are in New York today buying supplies to take with them on their honeymoon trip to the cartoonist's "Treasure Island" in the Bahamas. They will put the world of whirling social activity with which they have been surrounded behind them and sail tonight for McCutcheon's little island where pirates once hid the treasure they took from many a prosperous merchant brig.

"Salt Cay" is the name of the island. From his earliest youth, when he read of the exploits of Capt. Kidd and his dashing crew of cutlass wielders, McCutcheon longed for a possession. Nothing has seen in his big game hunts through Africa or in his travels as a war correspondent charmed him as much as Salt Cay. Shortly after he bought it his engagement was announced to Miss Evelyn Shaw, the daughter of one of his old friends.

Among the supplies the cartoonist said he would buy will be spades with which to dig up the finely carved chests full of doubloons which rumor says were hidden on his island by pirates of the Spanish Main.

When they become wearied of the solitude the McCutcheons plan trips to surrounding islands where a gay winter social set holds sway.

RAIDER IS REPORTED SUNK OFF PARA, BRAZIL

Pernambuco Hears British Cruiser Glasgow Destroyed Ship Thought to Be Vineta.

By Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentine, Jan. 22.—La Prensa publishes a dispatch from Rio Janeiro saying that, according to a cablegram received at Pernambuco, the British cruiser Glasgow has sunk a German commerce raider, 130 miles off Para (Northern Brazil), according to a generally accepted report received at Pernambuco. The report is not officially confirmed, previous reports of the raider's position caused the news to be regarded as authentic.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Herald today prints the following:

"Pernambuco, Sunday.—The Prussian commerce raider, believed to be the Vineta, which has wrought havoc with allied shipping in the last few weeks in the South Atlantic, particularly off the Brazilian coast, has been sunk by the British cruiser Glasgow, 130 miles off Para (Northern Brazil), according to a generally accepted report received at Pernambuco. The report is not officially confirmed, previous reports of the raider's position caused the news to be regarded as authentic."

United States Asks Germany If Any Americans Are Among War-Denied Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Inquiry has been made of Germany as to whether there were any Americans among the 108 neutral sailors brought in as prisoners of war on the German prize yawl, for having taken pay on armed merchantmen. The inquiry was made entirely on press reports, and not to any official information which has come to the State Department.

Officials admit that the armed ship issue is at the root of the whole question. The views of this country and Germany appear widely divergent. Each case, officials say, must be decided on its own merits, but out of all the disputes, they have recently arisen it is believed it may be possible to enunciate some general rule. It is stated, however, that no definite program has yet been drawn up.

The mere fact that some of the merchant vessels were permitted to sail as merchantmen from American ports is regarded as prima facie but not final evidence of their peaceful status. The status of sailors captured on an armed ship after purely defensive resistance is very undecided. As there is no similar case, great care must be shown in the handling of the difficulty.

Nevertheless, the seriousness of the armed ship issue is such that some understanding is felt essential here.

APPLE DECORATIONS FOR SPRING BONNETS

Women's Hats in Weird Colors—One an Absinthe Green—on Display in Exhibit Here.

Women's hats for spring and summer, many of them in weird colors, are being shown today, and will be displayed again tomorrow, by New York and Boston milliners, at a private exhibit at the Hotel Jefferson.

The creations, which are for those who can afford to pay high prices for exclusive designs, are mainly old-fashioned rough straw, which is predicted, will be the vogue. Absinthe green, which is the 1917 term for apple green, is the predominating hue, with purple, and red and yellow following closely in popularity.

A plain green straw, with one imitation apple pinned to the bow, which is designed for morning wear, sells for $35. A red, purple and yellow banded straw, with a cluster of apples on one side and trimmed with liere band, is priced at $30. That is intended for afternoon promenades.

Sunset in Apple Orchard.

The futurist straw will be the vogue with women who strive for something to fit their personality. There is one selling at $45 which might give the impression of sunset in the old apple orchard. The crown is red, with alternating half-inch stripes of purple, yellow, green, pink, blue and white. A cluster of green apples dangles from the bow, and the front is turned up saucily.

For plasma wear on warm spring afternoons there is a dainty $35 creation of straw, covered with satin and braided with liere. A hat designed to give warmth to a colorless face is sailor-shaped, with a brilliant purple crown which fades into black at the brim; price $40, with no trimmings.

With the vogue of the cabarets has come a special hat for restaurant wear. These are mainly toques in violet, green, purple and yellow, with a dash of pink or white, maybe, at the bow. And the price, from $25 up, mainly $30.

Feathers will be worn during the spring months, but only the lighter ones. The trend is toward the Eastern idea of only one feather in the headgear, and that set at a daring angle from the crown. Of course the feathered ones bring higher prices.

WHIPPLE PREPARING FOR "LEAK" INQUIRY

House Committee Hearing to Be Resumed in New York Tomorrow; Counsel in Charge.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for the House Rules Committee in its inquiry to determine whether anybody, profited by a "leak" on President Wilson's peace note, was busy in the financial district today getting ready for the opening of hearings here tomorrow.

The understanding in financial circles is that the inquiry probably will not be extended to an investigation of the New York Stock Exchange. The present plan is to call officers of the Stock Exchange and question them about the exact procedure in the selling and buying of stocks.

Whipple Known as a Brilliant Cross Examiner.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Sherman L. Whipple, Sears & Ogden, is one of the foremost trial lawyers in New England and a particularly brilliant cross-examiner. He holds the distinction of having received the largest fee ever paid a lawyer in Massachusetts, $250,000, for his work in the Bay State Gas Co. receivership case, and was the dominating figure in the litigation which followed the famous subway explosion.

Born in New London, N. H., March 4, 1862, he was educated in the district school, Colby Academy and Yale University, from which he was graduated in 1883, the youngest member of his class. After teaching school for a year he entered the Yale law school and won an LL. B. degree in 1884. The same year he was admitted to the New Hampshire bar and soon afterward began practice in Manchester, N. H., as an associate of Judge David Cross.

In May, 1886, he came to Boston, and the following year was admitted to the Suffolk County bar. Known as an independent Democrat, Whipple never took an active part in Massachusetts politics until 1911, when he was nominated by the Democratic organization for the Senate, but was defeated by Senator Lodge after a close fight.

LEGISLATURE NOW HAS 392 EMPLOYEES WITH LIST GROWING

Preliminary Senate Payroll Prepared by Secretary Bears 188 Names.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
 JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Secretary Doc Brydon of the State Senate today sent to Auditor Hackmann a first and incomplete list of Senate employees. Names of 188 clerks and other employees are on the list. That the already large payroll will be added to was announced by Brydon in the closing paragraph in his communication to the Auditor, in which he said: "As others are reported and assigned, will certify same to you."

The Senate list of 188, together with the employees of the House, make a total of 352 legislative employees, besides the 20 elective employees of each house. The total number on the payroll, therefore, is 372.

Pay but No Work for Many.
 Each of these clerks will draw pay from Jan. 3, although there has been no work for a large majority of them and very little for any. The list as presented to the Auditor contains the names of relatives of many members of both branches of the Legislature. Almost every imaginable kind of a clerkship appears in the list, but there is no designation of the duties attached to the various jobs.

Many of the jobs have no duties whatever attached to them.

The Senate list includes a superintendent of ventilation, engraving clerks, smooth journal clerks, rough journal clerks, bill file clerks, messenger clerks, resolution clerks, stenographer clerks, committee room attendants, spittoon cleaners, minority clerks, stationery clerks, mail clerks, printing clerks, typewriter clerks, copy clerks, docket clerks, enrolling clerks, sweepers, telephone clerks, postal clerks, proof-reading clerks, ushers, secretary's clerks, indorsing clerks.

According to the list, six clerks are required to assist and deliver the mail to the 24 Senators and 18 clerks to look after copies of bills for the Senators. Six messengers are on the payroll in addition to 12 pages who serve as messengers. Five men are listed as cleaners of the official cuspidors of the 24 Senators and three are down as sweepers of the Senate chamber.

Some of Names on List.
 Among the names on the list are those of D. L. Bales Jr., a son of Representative Bales, and Wilbur Buford, a son of Senator C. M. Buford, who has another son, Anthony, on the House payroll; E. S. Casey, a brother of Senator Casey, who also placed M. M. Casey on the list; Grace Glick, a relative of Senator Glick; Anna McKnight, a relative of Senator McKnight; Irene Mayes, a relative of Senator Mayes; Martha and Stella Stark, daughters of Senator Stark; Margaret Warner, wife of Senator Warner of St. Louis; Gladys Welch, daughter of Senator Welch; Anna E. and Ethel Yancey, daughter of Senator Yancey.

FAVORS SEGREGATED DISTRICT

H. C. Koenig's Plan May Be Considered by Tenth Ward Association.
 The Tenth Ward Improvement Association may consider at its next meeting, the plan urged at yesterday's meeting by H. C. Koenig, for the establishment of a recognized and protected segregated district. Koenig said the police could not suppress certain forms of vice, and that efforts to do so had no effect. He said that the establishment of a segregated district would result in improvement of conditions. The association passed a recommendation that the city should establish a work farm, as a substitute for a bill to suppress the sale of deadly weapons, which is before the Legislature.

DANIELS EXPLAINS THE NOMINATION OF DR. GRAYSON

Navy Secretary Says President Followed Custom in Making Appointment.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The appointment of Dr. Cary T. Grayson to rear admiralship in the medical corps of the navy was explained today by Secretary Daniels. The naval appropriation act of 1911 created two rear admirals for the medical corps of the navy. Secretary Daniels pointed out. Dr. Grayson was promoted to one of these places. He did not get a place that had ever been filled before.

"It is the custom for the President," said the Secretary, "to fill these new places by the men who seem to be the best fitted for them without regard to their rank."

He also pointed out that the same thing had been done in the case of the marine corps, the civil engineers corps, the pay corps, and the construction corps. Under the new law it is considered proper to fill these places by selection or seniority.

Promoted for Capability. Dr. Grayson was promoted because of his capability, Mr. Daniels said. He has spent most of his time in the naval hospital at Annapolis, and has been in the Judge Advocate-General of the navy and the Attorney-General of the United States have both held that once filled these admiralships will then be refilled by seniority. When Congress provided for Admirals and Vice Admirals those places were not filled by the rule of seniority.

What has been said here contains the argument of the friends of Dr. Grayson for the promotion given him. There is a clear-cut difference of opinion, however, as to the legality of his appointment. Senator Gallinger, Republican leader of the Senate, said the confirmation of the Grayson nomination would meet with strong opposition in the Senate.

"In my opinion," he said, "the naval law of last year makes the appointment of Dr. Grayson illegal, and for that reason I think confirmation should be withheld. The controversy over the question will be spirited and delay the other work of Congress."

"There are precedents for the Grayson appointment," said Senator Warren, father-in-law of Gen. Pershing, who was promoted by President Roosevelt over the heads of other officers. "Such promotions were made during the Roosevelt administration. In this case, however, the President has been a little extreme. Dr. Grayson has not distinguished himself as a naval surgeon, but has won prominence only as the physician of two Presidents."

Expected Confirmation. "I am not advised as to the exact provisions of the naval act of last year as it affects this case. I expect to see much opposition, but believe the nomination will eventually be confirmed."

"It will vote for the confirmation of Dr. Grayson," said Senator Tillman, chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, "unless it develops that his promotion is illegal. I do not believe there will be much opposition to the appointment."

"Last year's naval law," said Chairman Fugate of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, "does not apply at all to promotions in the staff of the navy. It was meant only to affect line promotions. For that reason I do not think that the Senate can refuse to confirm Dr. Grayson's appointment on the ground that it is illegal under the terms of the act of 1915, since he is a staff officer. The Attorney-General has given as his opinion that the President, under the Constitution, has the right to make nominations and the Congress cannot limit his power to nominate. The Senate, of course, has a right to refuse to confirm the President's appointments, but that body cannot in this case do it on the grounds that it is illegal under the naval law."

Senator Bryan, a member of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, will vote for Dr. Grayson's confirmation. He said he did not think that last year's naval law affected the case, since the appointment came from the President.

Republican Opposition. The Republicans of the Senate will organize to defeat Dr. Grayson's confirmation, and may succeed in blocking action to the end of the session. There is no way to force a vote.

"I do not know Dr. Grayson," said Senator Harding of Ohio, "but I understand he is a very good physician. But it must be discouraging to those in the service who are striving for promotion on the merit system to have a presidential favorite, especially in a case of this kind, jumped over their heads from Lieutenant-Commander to Rear Admiral."

Senator Smoot of Utah, said: "He has rendered no conspicuous service that would justify jumping him over the heads of so many others." Senator Ashurst of Arizona predicted the contest over Dr. Grayson's confirmation would be stormy and long drawn.

The naval act of last year, referring to seniority promotion of line officers, reads: "Hereafter all promotions to the grades of Commanders, Captains and Rear Admirals of the line of the navy, including the promotion of those Captains, Commanders and Lieutenant-Commanders who are, or may be carried on the navy list as additional to the numbers of such grades, shall be by selection only from the next lower respective grade upon the recommendation of a board of naval officers as herein provided."

INTERNAL BATHING'S RAPID GROWTH

It is not natural to expect that a relief from constipation and the many ills which it causes which is so effective and so natural as internal bathing should quickly make many converts.

But its general use has increased so tremendously in the past few years as to surpass other remedies, and there is no doubt that it is "made over new" the morning after an internal bath. The elimination of the pernicious and poisonous waste which is ever present in the lower intestine gives Nature a chance to work unhampered. And one bright, confident and eager for the day's duties.

Mr. F. E. Smith writes: "Dear Doctor—Your 'Cascade' made a new man of me at the age of 40. I persuaded my wife to use the treatment also, and today she has better health than ever before. Since the use of the 'Cascade' she has been able to walk for hours without fatigue. Fainting spells have become a condition of the past; can eat anything on the bill of fare and drink all beverages. Do not feel as if 'made over new' the morning after an internal bath. The elimination of the pernicious and poisonous waste which is ever present in the lower intestine gives Nature a chance to work unhampered. And one bright, confident and eager for the day's duties."

DOCTOR'S ACCOUNT OF ARTIST KILLING HERSELF VERIFIED

Made Border of Rug in Her Office "Dead Line" and Shot Self When He Stepped Off.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—The local art colony will take charge of the funeral of Miss Bettie de Jong, a painter of established reputation, who ended her life in her studio here Saturday night. The police have corroborated the story told by Dr. William S. Porter, an Oakland surgeon, who was in the studio with Miss de Jong, and who for three hours sought to dissuade her from taking her life.

A cablegram has been sent to Miss de Jong's mother and sister in Paris asking their wishes as to the disposition of the body.

Dr. Porter told the police his relations with the young woman were only those of persons mutually interested in art. He is president of the Alameda County Art Association. Dr. Porter met Miss de Jong during the progress of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, at which she was an exhibitor, and about three months ago he began sitting for a portrait.

He was unable to keep an engagement with the artist Saturday but called, at her request, shortly before 6 o'clock in the evening. After his arrival at the studio, the physician declared, Miss de Jong began to talk of ending her life, continually holding a small revolver. For three hours he endeavored to dissuade her from her purpose, but as he started to depart she shot herself in the temple.

When Dr. Porter went to the studio he found the furniture rearranged. He said he was escorted to a chair standing alone near the innermost wall of the studio. The chair was on a rug about eight feet square.

Miss de Jong sat in a big chair near the door, produced the pistol and informed him that she was going to kill herself before he departed.

"I started toward her," said the doctor. "She pointed the pistol at me and said: 'Don't leave that rug or I'll kill you first.'"

Finding serious argument unavailing he said he tried joking.

"You seem to have everything nicely planned," he said. "When are you going to do this dreadful thing?"

"The second you step off that rug," the doctor said she replied.

It was shortly after that, he told the police, that Miss de Jong, in a conversational tone, said: "You may go now."

"I thought I had succeeded in making her change her mind," he said, "or I would have been there yet. As I stepped off the rug she fired."

SUNDAY'S REVIVAL IN BOSTON HIS BIGGEST

60,509 Trail Hitters in Ten Weeks; Free Will Offering $51,800.

BOSTON, Jan. 22.—Billy Sunday last night closed his 10 weeks' campaign in Boston—the biggest revival the world has ever known—by breaking all records for attendance, "trail-hitting" and collections.

The Boston "trail-hitters" numbered 60,509, the largest number in any of his campaigns. They ranged from such men as former Gov. Eugene N. Foss, who yesterday gave Sunday $1000 at the free-will offering, down through all classes of society.

Sunday could have preached to 100,000 persons yesterday if the tabernacle could have held them. As early as 6 o'clock in the morning people came. About 62,000 gained admittance at the four meetings yesterday.

Of these, 5296 hit the trail, the biggest number in one day Sunday has ever known, and at the night meeting there were 2154, the biggest number he has ever had in one meeting. The total attendance for the 10 weeks, during which Sunday preached 133 times, were 1,220,000.

Sunday received four free-will offerings yesterday, totaling $61,800. Philadelphia gave $51,125. Baltimore's free-will offering was $40,000.

Grateful Letter Tells of Good Results Obtained by Using Father John's Medicine for Colds and Coughs

We have permission to quote from the following letter recently received from the Sisters of St. Mary at Farham, N. Y.: The sisters who have been taking Father John's Medicine are perfectly cured of their cough, after having tried several other kinds of cough medicine without the least beneficial effects. We are sincerely grateful and would like to recommend Father John's Medicine to all for the most stubborn coughs and colds.

Gratefully your (Signed) Sisters of St. Mary, Farham, N. Y.

It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine is so valuable in the treatment of colds because it is composed of nourishing food elements which give new strength and rebuild wasted tissue. Father John's Medicine has had over 60 years' success. It is a doctor's prescription, not a patent medicine, and is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.—ADV.

Daily Short Story

THE DOOR-SLAMMER

By Edward Clark.

COZY JONES was a very thrifty youth. He was chief bell hop at the hotel and he earned—and saved—more than all the other boys combined. Cozy was an adept not only in getting special pay for special services, but in inventing opportunities and occasions to serve. If a guest didn't want anything Cozy saw to it that he did. He suggested this and that, a paper, magazine or book, a sundae, a box of candy, headache tablets, liver pills—anything, in fact, that meant an errand and a tip; and he always contrived to do it so cleverly and so innocently that no one suspected him of interested motives.

Wild stories were told of Cozy. It was obviously said that he received rackets from doctors, lawyers, ministers and even undertakers for his unscrupulous skill in getting difficult business, and certainly the way he worked on the sympathies and prejudices of those of the hotel guests who happened to be war-travelers would have opened the eyes of professional German and British subsidizers. Yet Cozy was dissatisfied. It was irksome to attain affluence only by degrees. He wanted to get his money in a lump.

He saw his chance when Old Man Sykes took up his abode at the hotel. Old Man Sykes was a person of mystery. Only a few things were known about him. He was immensely old, he was inconceivably rich, and he hadn't a relative on earth—and perhaps previous generations in heaven. Cozy became deeply interested in him at once. He had read of just such friendless old codgers dying and leaving their entire fortunes to bell hops for some slight service. Why couldn't he, Cozy Jones, a specialist in awakening gratitude, do something big for the old man and so be named his heir?

But it was hard to make a beginning. Old Man Sykes was as remote and inaccessible as Mount Everest. Cozy, usually so sly and officious in the presence of new arrivals at the hotel, was frozen stiff by the nonconformist's arctic stare. His first timid advances were met with a bleak and magnificent silence, and thereafter he was dumb. For some unaccountable reason the old man had cast a spell of fear over him. It might have been his incredible age combined with the merciless hauteur of his manner, or it might have been some deeper mystery of his personality. Whatever it was, Cozy was nonplussed. All his stock expedients failed him. He could suggest no service. He could not even summon the courage to say good morning.

The other bell hops, who had stood by and seen Cozy skim all the cream from the milk of existence, were delighted.

"His goat has been nabbed at last," they laughed. "Watcha know?" But one morning the perturbed Cozy, seeing Old Man Sykes sitting as usual in the sunshine just outside the front door, had an inspiration. His foxlike little face turned pale in the shock of it, then he whistled to Quince O'Toole, the youngest, laziest, reddest-headed and most marvelously freckled bell hop of the bunch.

"This is strictly on the q. t., Quince," said Cozy. "Do you see that screen door? It's the heaviest one in town and it gives you the headache every time it slams. Now, kid, do you think it's in you to become a professional door-slammer?"

Quince grinned. "There's already a lot of amateurs on the job, and I don't think it would take many lessons, Coze, to evolve me into a profe!"

"Now listen," said Cozy softly. "Every time you slam that door while Old Man Sykes is sitting there I'll give you an unplugged penny!"

Quince's blue eyes popped out. "Wh-a-t?"

"Here's a jolt in advance," said Cozy. "Aw, you're bug," cried the red-headed disgruntled. "That poor old door is slammed hundreds o' times a day as it is!"

Cozy groaned. "Can't you get me? I want it slammed twice as loud and twice as often! Now no more questions and no tales told. See how happy the old glacier looks! Go give 'er a slam now."

Quince, smiling broadly, with his mischievous freckles lost in even more mischievous dimples, sallied up to the door and gave it a prodigious slam. Old Man Sykes smiled. Cozy followed and took particular pains to close it softly, artistically, beautifully, curiously, and Old Man Sykes frowned! Cozy was gravely mystified. What did it mean? The old fellow was bluffing, that was it. He could not help noticing the difference between the way Quince slammed the door and the way Cozy peeped it shut; and in his infantile perversity he was simply trying to make Cozy believe that he hated on noise. Why, the thing was too absurd. Who on earth liked to hear a door slam—unless he slammed it himself? So Cozy felt he had made a good beginning. The old man's fendish irony proved it.

And now the campaign was on in earnest. Quince earned a dollar the first day. It broke Cozy's heart to pay it, but he regarded it as a good investment. Every time Quince slammed the door Cozy followed him and closed it without the ghost of a sound. Old Man Sykes did not complain to the hotel management; he showed no anger, no nervousness, he did not even give a start at the infernal noise—and, to cap the climax, he sat by the door the entire day now, whereas formerly he had passed only part of his time there.

Cozy was sorely puzzled, yet he assured himself that he was making a hit, as even Old Man Sykes must be human enough to hate the slamming of a door. As for Quince O'Toole, the freckles had lost themselves forever in the dimples. Life was one grand, perpetual smile. Why not? Wasn't the money the easiest that had ever been minted?

Things went along thus for several days until one morning both bell hops noticed that Old Man Sykes was not in his accustomed seat by the tortured screen door.

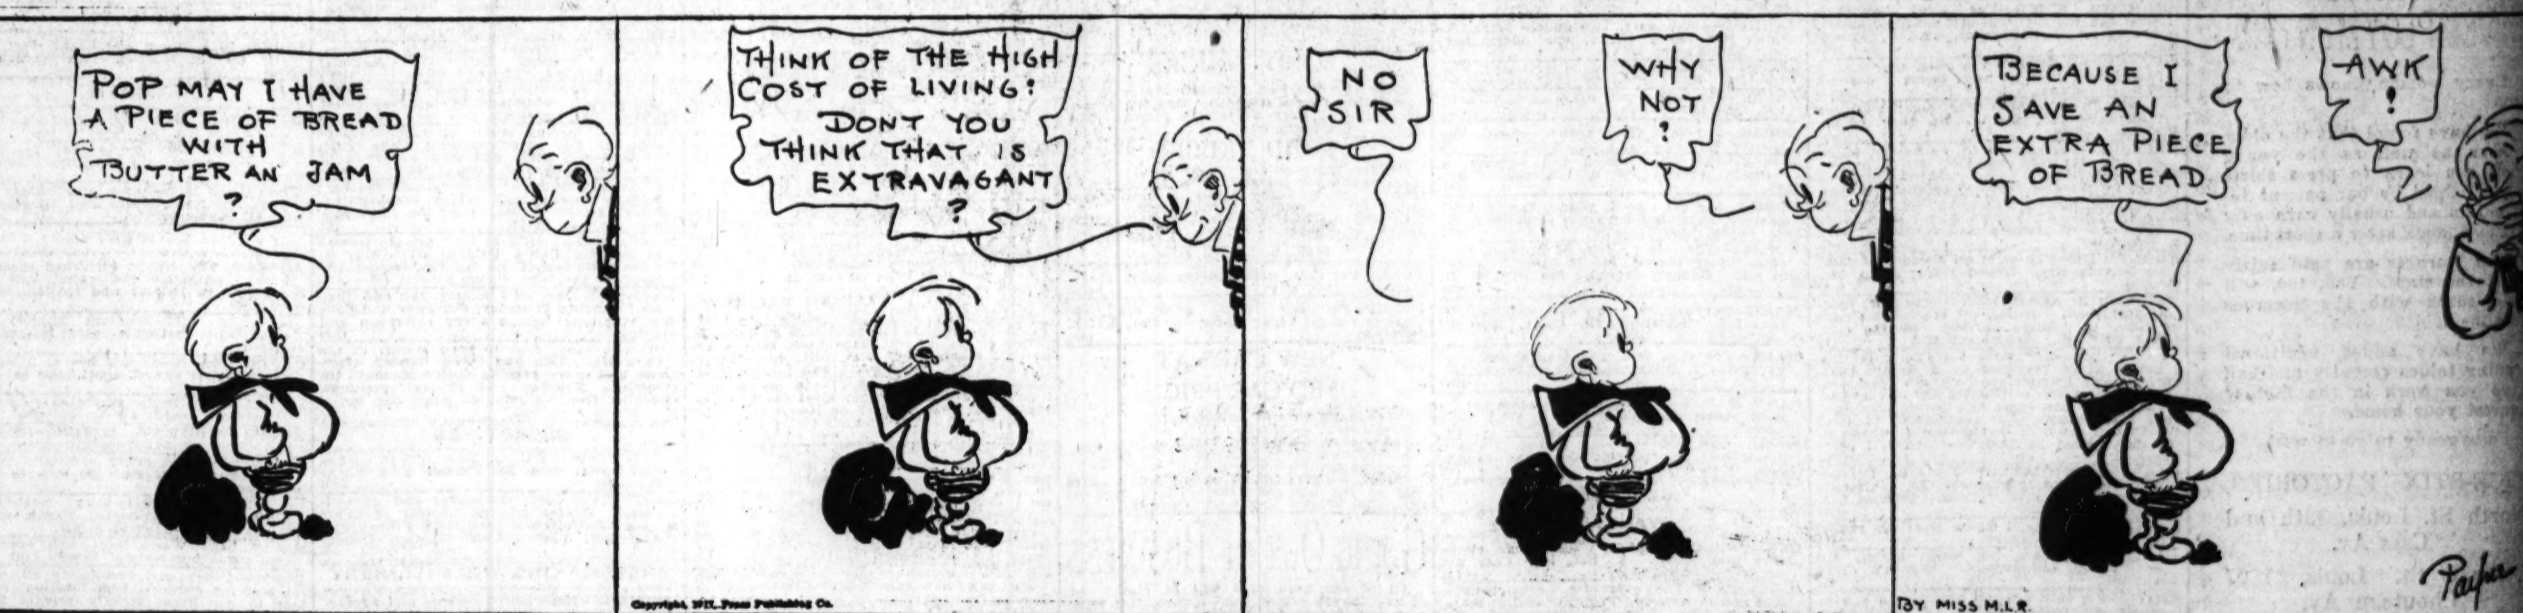

"He's gone," said the clerk, smiling.

The Sandman Story
For To-night

BY MRS. P. A. WALKER

THE WITCH'S CAVE.

ONCE upon a time there lived two children with their widowed mother in the far-off forests of Russia. Olaf, a boy, was 12 years old and managed to work at gathering fags, which brought in enough money to feed the family, while Olga the girl, who was 10, did the housework to spare her mother, who was sick.

One day a neighbor came in and told the children that it was possible to cure the mother.

"I know how she may get well," said the friend. "But it will require a strong body and a great deal of nerve to undertake the job. Your mother needs some help."

"He asked me all about you boys and left a letter to each of you."

Cozy opened his with trembling hands and a look of awe. It consisted simply and solely of a huge "ha! ha!" scrawled across a sheet of foolscap.

Quince's dimples pierced clear through his face when he opened his and saw a check for $100.

"I am sending you this," the old man wrote, "because of the great pleasure you have afforded me. Once upon a time such a hellish noise would have driven me mad. But it's different now. Every time you slammed that door it gave me an implied kind of joy to think how much I was missing. You see, God be praised, I'm stone deaf."

eying the boy savagely; "you are a pretty brave one to venture into my den. But it happens that a boy is just what I need. I have found that there is a leak in my storeroom and the water falls right on my bag of magic seed. I want you to bring out all of the bags—the six red ones, which are full of gold and jewels, and the large red one, which holds the seed."

Now, the chamber in which the bags were reached by crossing a deep hole by means of a plank. This plank was narrow, but strong enough to hold a light weight.

"Now, boy," said the witch, "you run across; bring me the bags over to this part of the cave."

So Olaf ran across the plank and dragged six red bags over to where the witch sat in the glow of the fire. Then he brought over the last one, which held the magic seed. The witch poured the seeds into a dry bag and replaced the jewels and gold in the old sacks. As he stood on the far side of the plank opposite to where the witch was standing, he thought it would be a good time to try to get some of the seed, but he saw he was being watched.

"I have made a mistake," suddenly called the witch, throwing up her hands in her excitement. "I have put some of the jewels in the seed bag—bring it back to me at once."

Olaf knew that this was his chance. As he neared the end of the plank with the bag in his arms, the witch reached out to grab it, and as she did so she stuck out her foot so as to hit the plank. Olaf saw her foot was to seize the bag, then upset the plank so he would fall to death in the hole, but he was too smart for her. With a quick jump he leaped over her head, and as he landed on the ground he gave a swift kick backward at the witch, and in another moment she was hurled down, down to the rocks below, which was what she had planned to happen to Olaf.

The lad ran quickly home, though the bag on his back was very heavy. And when he reached the cottage and emptied the bag on the table he found that there was not only at least a gallon of magic seed, but about an equal amount of gold and gems of all kinds.

So the sick mother was cured by the seed, which Olga made into a gruel, while the money which the gems brought them enabled the family to live ever after in comfort.
